In the last issue we announced to publish a survey on the classification literature of the past years arranged according to the outline given on p. 109 of I.C. 1974–2. We did assemble the literature of 1973 and 1974 but we counted altogether almost 750 bibliographical units. Its printing would of course exceed by far the space given to us in this journal. Thus we had to decide to cut off all the titles from 1973, except for the ones from the form divisions. By doing so, some groupings of our outline remained without entries.

We would like to suggest that students and/or other volunteers might work out bibliographies to the special groupings of this outline up to the year 1974 to be published in future issues of this journal.

The outline of the form and subject categories has been modified slightly. In the next issue the revised outline will be printed.

0 Form Divisions

01 Bibliographies

754 Matthis, R. E., Taylor, D.: Reclassification considered: a bibliography. In: Matthis, R. E., Taylor, D.: Adopting the Library of Congress classification system. New York–London: R. R. Bowker 1971. p. 149–194
171 titles in alphabetical arrangement on reclassification, each with an abstract.

02 Literature Reviews

755 Batten, W. E.: Document description and representation. In: Ann. Rev. Inform. Sci. & Technol. (ARIST) 8(1973) p. 43–68, 111 refs.
Review of the 1972 literature on document representation which is defined as surrogation, condensation, categorization and classification.

756 Elrod, J. M.: Year's work in cataloguing and classification. In: Libr. Resources & Techn. Serv. 17(1973) No. 2, p. 175–200, 120 refs.
Review of the literature for 1972. Material presented under the following headings: time and cost studies, catalog use studies, automation, classification and subject headings, nonbook cataloging and, international standardization.

757 Chan, L. M.: Year's work in cataloguing and classification. In: Libr. Resources & Techn. Serv. 18(1974) No. 2, p. 101–111, 65 refs.
Survey on the development in 1973, which seemed to have been characteristic in better cooperation and more standardization. Data are given on the use of the Dewey Decimal Classification and the Library of Congress Classification in libraries of Australia, Britain and the USA.

758 Fritsche, M.: Automatic clustering techniques in information retrieval. Luxemburg: European Communities 1974. 145 p., 155 refs. = EUR 5051e
State of the art report on automatic clustering techniques; reviews research since 1967.

776 Disclosure financial thesaurus. Silver Spring, Md.: Disclosure, Inc. (1400 Spring Street) 1974. 272 p.
Thesaurus of 11 200 terms for business activities, legal questions, securities and security transactions, finances and accounting, banking and insurance.

777 Thesaurus of accounting and auditing terminology.
New York, N. Y.: Price Waterhouse & Co., (1251 Avenue of the Americas) 1974. 158 p.
Thesaurus consists of 3741 main term entries. Broader/narrower terms are indicated, as are related terms.

778 Shillaber, C.: A library classification for city and regional planning. Boston, Mass.: Harvard Univ. Press 1973. 100 p., $ 7,—
Essentially a revision of Pray and Kinball's city planning classification of 1913 and including the classification of A. C. Comey an K. McNamara's state and national planning (1937). Design model according to Library of Congress classification.

779 Subject headings for real estate libraries. 2nd. ed. Chicago, Ill.: National Assoc. of Realtors 1973. 201 p., $ 10,—

780 Dusoulier, N., Gmach, M.: Thésaurus informatique.
(In French). Paris: CNRS 1974. 106 p.
The thesaurus comprises: alphabetical list of terms, hierarchical list of descriptors, alphabetical index to the hierarchical list, and a correspondence to the resp. vocabularies (in English) of INSPEC and SHE. The hierarchisation of concepts was done within eight facets.

05 Periodicals and Serials

Continuation of list in Nos. 1 and 2 of 1974.

781 Cataloging Service. Library of Congress. Processing Department, Washington, D.C. Bull. 109, May 1974, Bull. 110, Summer 1974 (quarterly)
The service is sent automatically to all subscribers to the Library of Congress Catalog Card Service. Nonsubscribers may address request to Card Division, Library of Congress, Building 159, Navy Yard Annex, Washington, D. C. 20541. No charge for subscriptions.
Contains advice concerning descriptive cataloging, subject cataloging, classification and shelflisting. References to new LC-publications.

782 CLASS. Classification Literature Automated Search Service. The Classification Society. North American branch. Bibliographic committee. W. Wayne Moss (Chairman), Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, Pa. 1 (1973)—; issued twice/ann.
Bibliography provided by the Automatic Subject Citation Alert (ASCA) service of the Institute for Scientific Information (ISI), Philadelphia through computer hits of articles citing one or more articles from a 50-reference profile of known articles in classification, esp. numerical taxonomy. Vol. 2, No. 2, issued June 1, 1974 thus contains 471 citing articles and their permuted title index. Service only for members of the Society.

783 IBBD/CDU Informativo (In Portuguese). Instituto Brasileiro de Bibliographia e Documentação. Comissão Brasileira de Classificação Decimal Universal, Avenida General Justo 171—4° andar, 20000 Rio de Janeiro, Brasil. 1 (1973) No. 1—; irreg.
Information about meetings, publications, courses and information on the UDC schedules in the Portuguese language.

784 Klassifikacija i Kodirovanie. (Classification and coding. Scientific and technical information bulletin) (In Russian). Gos. Kom. Standartov Sov. Min. SSSR, BNII techn. inform., klassifik. i. kodir., Moskva. 1974—; (No. 1, 28 p.)

785 Language Planning Newsletter. Culture Learning Institute. East-West Center,Honolulu, Hawaii. 1975—; three or four times ann.
Distributed free of charge to interested persons or institutions. Carries lead articles, announcements on meetings, etc., descriptions of research in progress, notices of books and articles, short book reviews.

786 Novoie v UDC (New in UDC). (In Russian). All-Union Scientific and Research Institute for Technical Information,Classification and Coding — VNIIKI, Ščuseva 4, Moskva. 1971—; irregular.
Extension volumes to the Russian UDC (besides the translations of FID-s official „Extensions and corrections to the UDC", see Intern. Classificat. 1(1974) No. 1, p. 58, item 521). So far 9 extension volumes have appeared.

885 Small, H., Griffith, B. C.: The structure of scientific literatures. I: Identifying and graphing specialties. In: Science Studies 4(1974) p. 17–40
Report on a first experiment using a new computer-based technique to identify clusters of highly interactive documents in science. Method used: co-citation (the number of times two documents have been cited together) not to be mixed with bibliographic coupling, (when two papers cite one or more papers in common). Data thus received indicate that e. g. the biomedical literature presents a structure that is quite different from the physical sciences.

886 Sokal, R. R.: Classification: purposes, principles, progress, prospects. In: Science 185(1974) Nr. 4157, S. 1115—1123, 51 refs.
Profound justification of a new approach to the art and science of classification. "The recent great increase in classificatory work is intimately related to the development of the electronic computer." "An unprecedented number of scientists is at work and new, automated methodologies are yielding information on many properties of numerous objects." Discussing the aspects as given in the title, the advantages of a conscious use of classificatory methods in science are shown.

986 Evans, D. W.: Synthetic subject coding condensed schedule. In: Class. Soc. Bull. 3(1974) No. 2, p. 9–23
A schedule is presented meant as a classification of the whole of knowledge at a broad level. Starts with 26 phenomena or general human activities (similar to Bliss) (using capital letters) and one or two subdivisions of these (using small letters). A number of 'qualifiers' are used e. g. for form divisions.

A model of natural language generation based on an underlying language-free reprcsentation of meaning is described ... The model encompasses several diverse classes of linguistic knowledge, which include: (1) executable tests of conceptual properties stored in discrimination nets; (2) information relating conceptual to syntactic roles, stored in a word-sense dictionary, and (3) surface grammatical knowledge, stored in a formal grammar.

A natural language question answering system is presented. The system's parser maps semantic paraphrases into a single deep structurc characterized by a canonical verb. A modeling scheme using semantic nets and STRIPS-like operators assimilates the sequence of input information. omnium et singulorum formae et lemmata cum suis frequentiis et contextibus variis modis referuntur quaeque. (In Latin, Italian, French, English, German) Stuttgart: Frommann-Holzboog 1974. 45 p.
First survey on the INDEX THOMISTICUS, a documentation of the vocabulary used in 179 latin works of the 9th to the 16th century: 1 700 000 lines of text with altogether 10 600 000 words. 100 of these Latin works are definitely from St. Thomas. The concordances will be displayed in 37 volumes. Text analysis (with the help of IBM machines) started in 1949 in Gallarate, Italy, was continued from 1967–69 in Pisa, after this for 15 months in Boulder, Colorado and from 1971 – today in Venice. Numerous scholars participated in the work for which – including programming – more than 1 million of working hours were needed.

For the classes UDC 330/330. 13 (used as an example) a thesaurus-like index was created. The experiences made led to 7 conclusions, some of them having also implications for the future construction of schemes. The report has the following annexes: 1. Official French version of UDC 330/330.13; 2. Revision of the official text of 330 till 330. 13; 3. Alphabetical index of annex 2 in the form of a thesaurus; 4. Hierarchical index of the contents of annex 3. (Work accomplished for FID/C3)
