Forthcoming Workshops

2nd International Summer School on the Digital Library

The Tilburg Innovation Center for Electronic Resources in cooperation with Tilburg University and Elsevier Science is holding its 2nd summer school workshop from August 10-22, 1997 at Tilburg University, the Netherlands. Participants will receive hands-on sessions for advanced tools and digital library products. Group discussions will allow participants to present their own library case to other participants and lecturers. The themes of this workshop include: the future role in libraries; strategic planning; financial issues; electronic documents (copyright, journals, research papers, etc.); information technology (CD-ROMS, networks); Internet and WWW; users in an electronic environment; and preparing your library staff. This workshop benefits librarians from university, college, research and business libraries, and professors of library science.

Conference Reports

308th Meeting, Classification Research Group

This meeting was held on Friday February 21, 1997 at the University College London. The meeting opened with a discussion on alphabetical indexes to classification schedules particularly to the indexes of the BC2 fascicles that have been published. At the meeting three sample index excerpts were examined, with the assistance from the BCA computer programs of the unfinalized classification schedules of BC2 Class U/V Technology. Other topics raised at the meeting included the style variations between one published fascicle index and another, problems in creating a satisfactory index to the whole BC2 system, and recommendations that a revised or new INDEX program should meet the specifications of an agreed indexing policy. The attendees also raised concerns about questionable results in existing published indexes.
